

A Woman's Savings

Are often more important to her than a man's can be to him. The woman who is suddenly thrown on her own resources or faced with a sudden need of money is placed much worse than a man in similar situation.

The saving account that you start for your daughter may some day stand between her and hardship.

An account in her name may be opened at this bank with as little as one dollar and interest will be paid on all balances.

What About That Dandruff?

There is just this much about it: Dandruff is a germ disease, is most untidy, annoying, and leads to baldness. When chronic, it is very stubborn, but surely yields to thorough and energetic treatment. All germs must be destroyed, the scalp must be restored to health. Here is the remedy: Ayer's Hair Vigor. Ask your doctor about using it.

GETS MOVING PICTURES OF SOUTH SEA LIFE

AFTER having spent considerable time in studying the customs and economies of the natives of the South Sea Islands and securing scientific data, F. B. Hyde, of Washington, D. C., who is a specially commissioned agent of the Smithsonian Institution and the federal department of agriculture, passed through Honolulu on the Ventura on his way to the coast, accompanied by Mrs. Hyde.

Mr. Hyde took back with him 15,000 feet of moving picture films of the weird native customs and ceremonies, and found experience in plenty in the different fields where his scientific work and explorations carried him. The data that he gathered concerning the people of the islands, from life in a native hut to the native ceremonies by which he was made a high chief of the Samoans, is invaluable both to himself and to the scientific institution which he represented. The phases of native life and ceremonies which he secured through the medium of the motion picture machine, so far as is known, have never been recorded before, many of which never left the South Seas in any manner whatever. He traveled principally for his own amusement, his commission from the government being in recognition of his scholarly attainments and as assistance in his chosen work.

While in Samoa he arranged a trip to the island of Savaii, on which is located the famous volcano of Samoa. As his guests he had Faamu-Sumai, daughter of King Maleatoa of Samoa, and her husband, Mulinu. Faamu's half-brother was an arrival in Honolulu yesterday, coming here to be educated. The trip proved to be a trying one, and it was twenty-four days before they were able to get passage to Apia. Faamu, however, saw that the party had the best of times while among her native people.

ROMANCE IN HONOLULU MARRIAGE ON MAINLAND

Friends of Miss Louise M. Irwin and Mr. J. F. McCorkle of this city have received announcements of her marriage to Mr. McCorkle, which took place in Tacoma, Wash., on October 17 last. Miss Irwin was for two years in business here. She had a hair-dressing establishment in the Young Hotel building, and after leaving here toured the Orient for some months, returning to Hilo and spending a month there with Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Hotell.

Mr. McCorkle was connected with the von Hamm-Young Company auto department for two and a half years, and it was in this city that the romance developed. The young couple will make their home in Victoria, B. C. Mr. and Mrs. Hotell accompanied them to Tacoma and after the marriage went to Victoria, where Mr. McCorkle and Mr. Hotell have opened a large garage and general repair business.

ARMY AND NAVY

Capt. Henry Gustav Beyer, medical director, U. S. N., in charge of the Naval Medical School and attached to the bureau of medicine and surgery of the Navy Department, retired October 28. He has been detached from duty and ordered home to await retirement. Capt. Beyer is a native of Germany. He was appointed to the Medical Corps of the navy from New York state in 1876. He was assigned to the Medical School two years ago.

New specifications have been drawn by the War Department for the scout military aeroplanes to be purchased with the first expenditures of the $100,000 appropriation made by the last Congress.

To effect any shipment by rail or boat the maximum spread of the supporting surfaces is fixed at forty feet. The engines of the two-passenger machine must be of American make. A maximum speed of sixty-five miles an hour is fixed for the larger machine. These are new features of the specifications.

It is required that the one-passenger machine climb 1500 feet in three minutes, carrying fuel for a one-hour flight. The two-passenger machine must rise 200 feet in ten minutes, carrying 600 pounds of weight, including the aviator, passenger, and 150 pounds of oil. Both machines must be capable of making figure 8 within a rectangle 500 yard by 250 yards, although it is not required that extra weight be carried during these tests.

The one-passenger machine must attain a speed of sixty-five miles an hour. The two-passenger aeroplane must make forty miles an hour, but not more than six-fifty miles an hour. Engines must be capable of being throttled at desired speeds, both machines must land and rise on plowed ground, carrying full weight, and the supporting surfaces must be large enough to satisfy the army officers that a safe landing angle will be insured. A two-passenger continuous endurance test is provided.

Manufacturers must provide a name plate for each aeroplane, giving the makers' type and serial number, but the paintwork names or similar matter on any part of the machine is prohibited.

Brig. Gen. James Allen, chief signal officer of the United States army, is uncertain by many machines will be purchased under these specifications. The speed required for attaining certain altitude, the spread of the planes, and other details represent the latest information of the army aviation officers on military requirements, combined with the maximum degree of safety to aviator.

The Continent, flagship of the Atlantic squadron, is at the Brooklyn navy yard with a broken propeller. She crept to the yard after the review of warcraft at New York. Her presence at that of a dozen other vessels warped at the yard, but it was at it stated that they went there only because it was the regular docking time and they were to be brushed up and repaired in a minor way.

The serious injury to the Connecticut was reported.

The post-savings depository as an incentive the laying aside of money for the proverbial rainy day is pointed to a report from the Panama Canal zone. Whereas June 30, 1911, canal railway employees had placed $3300 in money orders payable to themselves at the office of issue, June, 1912, five months after the post-savings system had been established in the zone, the employees had a total of $550,000 on deposit. Of this sum $357,000 was in the postal savings banks.

Thirty notes were represented by the 2402 visitors.

James G. British ambassador to the United States, returned to Washington an absence of six months. It is expected that the protest of British government against provision allowing free passage the Panama canal to American livestock trade will be one of the first things to engage the attention of the ambassador.

Since Jassador Bryce was last in Washington he has visited, in company with Mrs. Bryce, Australia, New Zealand, New South Wales, and other British possessions. Since his return to America his latest book on South Africa has been printed.

FARMING FORTY FEET OF WATER

Farming forty feet of water would seem to be rather difficult. It is both dull and expensive work, and is done on a vast scale. There are farmers forty, fifty and even sixty feet salt water—sometimes more than twenty thousand acres under a single management.

These do not produce grain, but oysters. They are sometimes more expensive than the vast grain fields of the West. Oyster grounds have been for $200 per acre—all under water.

The crop propagated, seeded, planted, reared, removed, replanted, matured and harvested all by steam-powered large steamers being employed of catching 1200 bushels oysters per hour from these grounds.

These grounds, as may be readily seen no longer in the little creeks and rivers where oysters formerly grew, but are in great open bays and sounds. Along Island Sound, Peacock, Gales, Narragansett, Great South and Casapeake Bays, where the ground covered by the deep, pure current of salt sea water, and where the products of oysters is always pure and delicious. This is modern oyster, which has practically replaced the small, natural oyster fishery.
